Summary of key findings for parents:

This childminder early educator is Outstanding because of the following:

- Relationships with children are strong. Cherine takes the time to get to know the children and, as a result, children quickly settle. Children are eager to involve Cherine in their play, sharing ideas and knowledge.
- Cherine has worked tirelessly to develop children's confidence and self-esteem. This has had a significant impact on children, who are now more confident and have overcome their shyness.
- Parents are supported to develop their children's learning at home. This is achieved through the sharing of activities and play resources, which overall, has a positive impact on children's development.
- Interactions with children are positive and purposeful. Cherine listens to what the children have to say, and she uses their views to expand learning further.
- Cherine takes the time to get to know the children's individual likes and dislikes to support their learning. Cherine understands that involving children's likes within activities keeps them interested and engaged.
- Boundaries within Cherine's setting is communicated effectively to children and families. She shares behavioural techniques with parents which provides support and consistency between home and Cherine's house.

To maintain outstanding practice the childminder educator should:

- Continue to develop personal evaluations to continuously drive improvements forward.

- Collecting the views of parents from surveys, the childminder's own questionnaires and any spoken to on the day
- Discussing the childminder's self-evaluation and plans for improvement

Inspection findings

Organisation, welfare and leadership is Outstanding

Cherine is a conscientious childminder educator who ensures children, and their families, are at the centre of her setting. She makes a special effort to fully understand the individual needs of children and their families. This is evident in her effective settling-in sessions where she endeavours to find out as much information about families, such as knowing the language the family speak at home and then using some home language, in one example it was Hindi, to label play resources. This ensures children and their families feel valued, respected and welcomed into the setting. Careful consideration has been given to the storage of toys. Cherine displays these to spark children's interest and curiosity. For example, Cherine strategically placed animals with building blocks to promote children's interest, encouraging them to explore the different play opportunities with the two different types of toys. Cherine's safeguarding knowledge is good. She is confident when discussing signs and symptoms of abuse and is able to explain the steps she would take if she was concerned about a child. knowledge of her local referral procedures. Cherine is an effective promoter of safeguarding; she understands her responsibilities to keep children safe and secure in her home environment.

Teaching, learning and development is Outstanding

Cherine is a natural teacher of young children. Children know she is eager to be involved in their play and is interested in what they have to say. Interactions with children are positive and purposeful, thus enhancing their learning experiences. Cherine's open questions when talking to children encourages them to talk freely and supports them to rationalise their thinking. An example of this was observed during a discussion around farmyard pigs. Children identified the pigs as mummy pig and daddy pig etc. Cherine questioned the children to identify why they thought these pigs were mummy and daddy. This supported children to think for themselves and have their own ideas. Cherine then asked further probing questions to help the children to fill any gaps in their knowledge.

Children make outstanding progress with their learning in this setting because of the in-depth knowledge Cherine has of each individual child and what makes them unique. She has taken the time to get to know them including their individual needs and learning preferences. Cherine then uses her knowledge about the children to plan activities that support and challenge children, thus ensuring there is continual progress in their learning. Relationships with children are visibly strong, Cherine has worked hard to establish trusting relationships with the children. This is evidenced in the visible change in one child who enjoyed chatting to Cherine. Her focussed teaching was instrumental in helping the girl improve her speech and language skills. She is now a confident child who clearly enjoys chatting to her peers and the educator, even in front of the inspector.

The promotion of children's well-being is Outstanding

Cherine is an exceptional care giver. She has worked tirelessly to established strong relationships with both the children and their families. Settling -in sessions are personalised to suit the needs of individual families. Strategies to promote positive behaviour are shared with parents so they can discuss it with their children at home. This ensures partnerships between settings are strong, valued and respected. Diversity is strongly supported within the setting. This is achieved through various displays, resources and discussions. Cherine has considered wider diversity issues, such as different family dynamics within setting, ensuring children can fully understand similarities and differences, thus promoting a cultural understanding in a positive way. Children are happy in Cherine’s care. They truly are part of the setting, their views are valued, respected and welcomed.
